REPORT OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

The Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania exists to care for homeless, destitute, and neglected children of many kinds and ages. They are received without regard to race, creed, or color, and cared for under supervision in carefully selected families with due regard to their religious faith. The children are placed in these families with or without payment of board according to circumstances.

Many kinds of children receive care. The Society has become the home-finding agent for a large number of poor boards, juvenile courts, societies, hospitals, institutions, and Homes for children. The 1918 children remaining in care at the close of the year were received from 24 different poor boards, 16 county juvenile courts, 10 societies, 9 hospitals, 16 institutions and 7 miscellaneous sources in Philadelphia and eastern Pennsylvania.

The Society a home-finding agent. By receiving children from the directors of the poor, the Society assists in removing children from the almshouses where they are often found under pauperizing influences. The children taken from the juvenile court frequently include those who have been seriously neglected by their parents and are in danger of drifting into the dependent and criminal classes. Among the children taken from the hospitals are those without suitable homes to which they can be returned. The Society is often able to place such children under healthful conditions in the country, where they make a speedy convalescence, after which they can be permanently placed in family homes. From various societies and institutions we take children who require permanent homes. Such agencies do not usually have facilities for finding good homes, placing children in them, and carefully supervising them after placement. For this reason, the Society is glad, as far as its resources permit, to co-operate by offering its special facilities for such work.

In finding good family homes for children and meeting preferences as to age, sex, color, and religion, it is frequently necessary to transfer them from one county to another. To facilitate this, the main office of the Society performs a special service by receiving children from one county and placing them in another. The families with whom these county children are placed are found and inspected by the main office of the Society, and its visitors continue to visit and supervise the children in their new homes.

In annual reports and bulletins the Society has often emphasized its belief that children should not be permanently separated from their parents except for urgent and compelling reasons, and then only after every effort has been made to build up such families and assist them to keep their children with them. Good mothers should be aided in their own homes to keep their children with them, whenever that can be done with due regard to their welfare. We believe also that fathers who are temporarily in distress should be helped to become self-supporting so that they can provide for their own children whenever that is possible. For the past four years the Society has kept a careful record of the circumstances and conditions of all of the children received, with special reference to the causes which rendered them homeless and neglected. In the next Bulletin of the Society to be published at an early date we will give some important statistics covering this four-year period, and also short stories of some typical families.

The following statement as to the condition and circumstances of the 534 children received in 1913. parents of the 534 children received for care during 1913 may be of interest.

Of the children received last year, the parentage of 87 is unknown to the Society. Some of these are foundlings, while a number of others were received from almshouses or other institutions which for some reason did not or could not secure definite information about the parents. Seventy-eight children brought to the Society were illegitimate. Many of these had been abandoned or given up by the mother before we had a chance to prevent such action. Included in this group were some children whose mothers were quite young or morally irresponsible, or incapacitated physically, so that it was advisable to relieve them of the care of their infants.

We received 9 children whose mothers had deserted their husbands, and 55 children whose fathers had deserted their wives. In the case of the fathers who had been deserted by their wives, the application usually was for a boarding home for the children. The mothers who had been deserted represent many different conditions. Some of them were morally or physically unable to give proper care to the children, while others preferred to place the children temporarily in order that they might take up some special kind of work for self-support. A few children were received for temporary care, while the mother kept one child and took a place out at service. In addition to these deserted children, there were 44 others whose parents had deliberately separated, neither one having been deserted by the other. This includes many different kinds of fathers and mothers. Usually the home had actually ceased to exist before the Society was asked to take the children, and generally there was little that could be done to re-establish the family.

Of all the children received in 1913, only 17 had lost both parents by death. There were 54 other children whose mothers had died and 59 who had lost their fathers by death. In the case of the children left without a mother, they were often found without proper homes. Frequently the application was for a boarding home with an agreement that the father should contribute something toward the support of the children, but there were many instances in which the father, through physical or moral incapacity, failed to do this. Among the children of widows received by the Society, there were very few where the only difficulty was poverty. Often the mother was found incapacitated because of acute illness or some hopeless physical or moral condition. There were other instances of shiftlessness, lack of interest in the welfare of the children, intemperance, immorality, and various forms of neglect.

There were 131 other children taken during the year whose parents were alive, married, and living together. Included in this group are many different kinds of cases. A number of the children were sent to us by the Society to Protect Children from Cruelty and from the Juvenile Courts. We find among these children whose fathers are intemperate, immoral, in prison, or mentally or physically incapacitated to support the family. In other instances, the conditions are reversed and the chief cause is the failure of the mother through some vice, or because of illness, to give her children proper care.

During the year we found situations for and otherwise assisted 316 destitute women. Most of these were mothers with one child each, whom we placed in families. Among these mothers were married women whose homes were broken up by the illness, vice, or desertion of their husbands, widows left with young children to support and usually actually homeless when they came to us, and unmarried mothers trying faithfully to care for the child in spite of its unfortunate parentage. The experience of the Society for a number of years in this department is that it is often through the love for the child that such mothers are won back to self-respect and right ways of living. In finding situations for these mothers with children and supervising them after placement, our agent inspected 128 homes and made 186 visits.*

Last year we reported our experience in caring for 31 babies, mostly foundlings, by placing them with carefully selected certified wet-nurses. On January 1, 1913, there were 12 of these babies in care and during the past year 25 more were received,† making a total of 37 during 1913. The average age of the 25 babies when received was about 10

*The Committee on Women with Children arranged for the opening on January 1, 1914, of a boarding home at 122 North Fifty-third Street, West Philadelphia, where mothers with children may secure meals and lodgings at a reasonable rate. To conduct this boarding home the Committee has secured the services of a capable woman who has made special arrangements for the temporary accommodation of mothers with children waiting placement in situations in the country and suburbs. This gives such women a clean, comfortable home with good surroundings whenever they find it necessary to be in the city. The charges will be within the reach of all working women. The home is open to those who are recommended by our Department for Women with Children.

An arrangement has been made for similar accommodations for colored women at the Association for the Protection of Colored Women, 1506 Catharine Street, Philadelphia.

† Twenty-one of these came from the almshouse at Blockley through the Department of Public Health and Charities and include babies abandoned on the street by mothers and others whose mothers had died or were sent for some reason to a public institution on account of physical or mental defects. Three infants were taken through the Social Service Department of the University of Pennsylvania Hospital on account of the death or illness or other incapacity of the mother to nurse or care for her own baby, while one was received direct from the parents on account of the physical incapacity of the mother to care for the child.

weeks. At the close of 1913 there remained 16 of the 37 infants cared for during the year. The average length of time these 37 infants remained with wet-nurses was four and one-half months, and the average gain in weight was three pounds and five ounces. Some of these infants were transferred to our country boarding homes or placed with a view to adoption. Three babies did not improve and died in our care, two of them during the hot summer days. Four others were in such a weakened condition that within a few days they had to be placed in the hospital where they died, and one after seven months' care contracted whooping-cough and died in the hospital. Another infant, one month old, was accepted for placement with a wet-nurse but died before the transfer could be made.*

It should be noted that this experiment was made for many of these babies as a last resort, after other methods of feeding had failed to improve their condition. Wet-nursing was tried because the doctors and nurses believed that this offered the best chance for restoration to a normal condition for these particular babies. The Children's Aid Society is chiefly interested in helping to establish this method as far as possible for foundlings and other delicate infants whose mothers are physically unable to care for them. Experience seems to indicate that there is also an important field here for the use of wet-nurses by hospitals and institutions.

Among the children placed permanently in family homes without payment of board, 27 were legally adopted in 1913.

Legal They had been in the care of the Society an average adoptions. of two and one-half years, and their average age when adopted was five and one-half years. At the close of the year there were 779 other children in free homes under the supervision of the Society. Some of these will eventually be adopted, but many will be raised in these homes as own children

* Dr. Joseph S. Neff, director of the Department of Public Health and Charities, in an address endorsing the work of the Children's Aid Society in providing wet-nurses for foundlings, spoke of the excellent results secured and the low mortality record. Dr. Neff quoted the following statistics:

"Of the 5000 deaths last year (1912) in Philadelphia during the first year of life, 38 per cent. died during the first month and 56 per cent. under three months. The greatest mortality is among foundlings, and especially in institutions, where we have had a mortality rate as high as 90 per cent."

The nine deaths out of 37 babies under care, or really eight out of 36 (for one died before wet-nursing could be tried), give a mortality of about 22 per cent. of those actually wet-nursed. Considering the delicate and neglected condition of most of these infants when received, the record is very encouraging.

without legal adoption and when they are old enough they will receive compensation for their services under the oversight of our visitors. Legal adoption is usually asked only in the case of the younger children and each year hundreds of our children receive the benefits of family life without it. Children are first placed on trial with families after their homes have been carefully investigated and inspected. The Society does not consent to the legal adoption of a child until after it has lived at least one year in the home of the adopting parents. This plan makes it possible for the visitors to know that the home is not only a good one itself, but adapted to the particular child and that the child is satisfactory to the family and happy with them.

After the children placed in families have grown up, it is peculiarly difficult to secure definite facts and figures as to the kind of men and women they have become. This is true both of the children who have been raised in an institution and discharged on reaching the age of self-support, and also of those placed in families when

quite young. The more independent, self-reliant, and successful in life, the less likely is the child on reaching maturity to be known to the agency that befriended it. It is well that this is the tendency, but it makes difficult the collection of statistics about results of child-placing. The Society continues its oversight and visitation of placed-out children until they are of age unless they are prior to that legally adopted, returned to parents or relatives, or in some other way officially passed from care.

While it appears to be impracticable to any large extent to follow the careers of placed-out boys and girls after they become self-supporting men and women, much can be told from their tendencies after they have passed the period of adolescence. Of the 578 boys and girls under supervision between 14 and 20 years of age, 528 are known to be doing well in good homes where they are satisfactory to the families with whom they were placed, while 50 are not doing well in that they are restless and unsettled in their habits and giving our visitors more or less concern as to their future. Of this latter group,* some will doubtless improve and

* Twenty-six others have left without permission the homes in which they were originally placed and their addresses are at present unknown to the Society. Of these, 13 are boys from 16 to 20 years of age, 7 are in their sixteenth year, two in their fourteenth year, one boy is in his thirteenth year, and three are colored girls in turn out well, while others may become worse. In view of the parentage, early environment and unfavorable physical and mental condition of many of these children when received, this record on the whole shows the great value both to the children and to the community of this form of child-saving work. Experience shows that many if left in the condition where they were found would have drifted into the worthless class.

During the year the Society has continued its relations with the Children's Bureau, which is an unincorporated, co-operative agency established in February, 1907, by the action of the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania and the Seybert Institution for Poor Boys and Girls as a joint receiving and investigating department in Philadelphia for the two organizations. The Boards of both societies believed that the investigation, immediate medical care and study of the children individually before deciding what kind of permanent care is needed, can be done more economically and efficiently by a central agency than by each society or institution working independently. In May, 1908, the Society to Protect Children from Cruelty joined with the Children's Aid Society and the Seybert Institution in the conduct and work of the Bureau. Since November, 1909, the Receiving Shelter at 419 South Fifteenth Street (entrance 1420 Waverly Street) has been conducted and maintained as a part of the Children's Bureau. In the fall of 1911, the Philadelphia Society for Organizing Charity became associated with the other three agencies in the management of the Bureau. During the past year the following institutions have become active members of the Children's Bureau in the order named: House of the Holy Child, Howard Institution, Shelter for Colored Orphans, Northern Home for Friendless Children, House of St. Michael and All Angels, Bethesda Children's Christian Home, Lincoln Institution, and Burd Orphan Asylum.

In the past year the Children's Bureau, on behalf of the affiliated societies, received 2872 applications from about 156 sources in Philadelphia County, such as societies, institutions, churches, hospitals, courts, city and county departments and individuals, involving a total of about 4605 children. In doing this work, agents of the Bureau made 8496 visits on behalf of children.

their seventeenth year. The Society promptly endeavors to locate any such boys and girls, and if they are found at any time before they become of age, it will again assume supervision over them and responsibility for their care as may be necessary.

The Receiving Shelter, which is also conducted and supported for the use of the affiliated children's agencies, provides temporarily for children. In addition to the beds in the Shelter building, a considerable number of private boarding-homes in the city and suburbs are utilized. In these, children are kept for a few days or weeks, according to circumstances, while receiving medical attention or pending transfer to country homes and institutions. Some idea of the scope of this work may be obtained from the following figures:

A total of 4265 examinations were made by the doctor; antitoxin was administered in 349 instances; there were 466 vaccinations; the tuberculin test was used in 49 cases; 362 children were sent to hospitals; 439 were sent to dispensaries; 176 were given treatment by the oculist; 371 required dental treatment; 94 were given a special examination to determine their mental condition. There were also 4992 treatments of children for minor conditions in the Shelter itself.

In addition to the children accepted by the Children's Aid Society from Philadelphia and placed in families in the country either free or at board, there were 234 children placed in various institutions through the agency of the Children's Bureau.

The nature of the work of this Society places a much heavier responsibility on the staff of visitors and agents than is usually the case with institutions. The continuance of the boarding-out plan depends upon the ability to find good families willing to take our kind of children for a moderate rate of board. To se-ecure permanent homes where young children can be placed requires constant effort, and for the older boys and girls there is much work to do in guiding them into self-support and fitting them into the right occupations and homes. We have found it necessary to have a special department to handle the applications for children and to study the territory in which we find homes, to correspond with families desiring to take children, and to arrange for the inspections of homes and to select children.

In addition to finding homes for children and investigating them and inspecting them before placement, it is necessary to select the children with special reference to the characteristics of the home and of the child in order to secure the best results for all concerned. During the year, 1154 families offered to take children and 494 made re-applications, most of them being reliable families who had previously boarded children for us, thus making a total of 1648 applications from widely separated territory. In dealing with these applications, the agents made 1101 inspections of homes in the eastern part of the State. After the children are placed, they must be visited and supervised. Therefore, the staff of visitors, in addition to making trips every week to take children out to homes, also visit in the various counties the children previously placed. During the year 7640 such visits were made in various parts of eastern Pennsylvania, and a few in adjoining states where we have children.

Special problems arise in dealing with the older boys and girls during their first year of self-support. Obviously, we cannot expect children to pass immediately from a state of entire dependency to one of entire self-support without some guidance and assistance. Two of our women visitors devote a large portion of their time to looking after the older girls who are placed in various situations in private families at wages. In addition to this, many of these girls require advice and direction and these two visitors have to give attention to many matters affecting their welfare.

For the older boys, the Society has a special agent who devotes his entire time to their supervision. Typical of his work is a report of 80 working boys who have been under his care, 70 being white and 10 colored. Five of these boys are in their fifteenth year and the remainder vary in age from 16 to 21 years, the average age being between 16 and 17 years. Thirty-six of these boys are boarding in private families, 7 are living at the home of the employer, and 37 are living with relatives. They are paying an average of $4.00 per week for board, and their average wages are $6.20 per week. An early number of the Bulletin of the Children's Aid Society will give additional information and stories about some typical cases of older boys and girls.

We also have a field agent to represent the Society in its work of removing children from almshouses, taking them from juvenile courts and co-operating with the various homes, hospitals and charitable institutions in eastern Pennsylvania in the reception and care of children.

To secure regular reports from schools and churches in regard to the education and religious training of the children we have placed out in families requires considerable clerical work. In our record department, we also keep all correspondence relating to the children, visitors' reports, agreements with caretakers, court commitments, and many other things important to be known about each particular child.

To accomplish its purposes, the Children's Aid Society must make its work known to a wide circle of people. Since the

Publicity. founding of the Society in 1882, annual reports have been issued each year, but they reach only a limited number of people. To extend the knowledge of our work we are seeking other means of publicity. In June and November of the past year we published attractively printed illustrated Bulletins of 16 pages each. In these Bulletins were given pertinent and interesting facts about our work in 1913 and pictures and stories of some of the children. These were mailed to our contributors and co-operating agencies, to many clergymen, and to those who work with us in various parts of the State. Leaflets and cards in large numbers have been used as inserts in circular letters sent out during the year to a selected mailing list of persons whose financial help the Society greatly needs. The daily newspapers have given considerable space during the year to our monthly reports, and various papers in the eastern part of the State have given publicity to the work. We have also done some advertising in "want columns" for good homes for children. The religious newspapers, including the Church News of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, the Presbyterian, the Episcopal Recorder, the Catholic Standard and Times, the Lutheran Observer, the Baptist Commonwealth, the Evangelical, the Reformed Church Messenger, and the Assembly Herald, have been used to make an appeal to the clergy and to the people for help in finding suitable homes for the children and support for the Society. Representatives of the Society have also made public addresses on its behalf before various organizations and meetings during the year. We are peculiarly in need of the help of many people in Philadelphia and eastern Pennsylvania in order to secure the best results for the children committed to our care. Every one who knows about our work is invited to assist in making it known to others.

The Society is fortunate in having had for a number of years the services of Mr. Francis Fisher Kane and Mr. Sydney Young as solicitors. They have passed on legal adoptions, advised us in juvenile court, non-support and desertion cases, and in general matters relating to the work of the Society. They have also represented the Society in the settlement of matters pertaining to estates, legacies, bequests and endowments in which we have had an interest. Mr. Kane, on his appointment as United States District Attorney, asked to be released from his duties as solicitor for the Society and his resignation was accepted with great regret. The Board wishes to record its deep appreciation of Mr. Kane's generous services as solicitor since 1893. We are glad to be able to retain Mr. Young's valuable services and to announce that Mr. Harold B. Beitler will be associated with him as the successor to Mr. Kane.

The Board of Directors acknowledges with much appreciation the receipt of $2500.00 under the will of the late Mrs. Acknowledg- George B. Roberts, who, prior to her death, had been ments. a valued Director of the Society for a number of years. The income of this fund is being used for the general work of the Society and makes a valuable and much needed addition to our resources.

We also wish to acknowledge during the year 1913 receipt of a legacy of $500.00 from the estate of the late Mary L. Kennedy.

These additions to our resources help to give permanence and stability to the income of the Society. This is particularly desirable since the responsibility of the Children's Aid Society for its wards continues from year to year and naturally is a constantly increasing expense. The present wide-spread activity of the Society would be impossible without the income from our trust funds and the generosity of the annual contributors to the general fund.

We are also under obligations to all those who have given money toward the support of special children, as well as to those who work for the Society as members of committees and in other ways.

Since October, 1911, the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania has had its main office in what is known as the Charities Building. Building, consisting of a group of houses from 415 to 421 South Fifteenth Street, together with the Philadelphia Society for Organizing Charity, the Children's Bureau, the Philadelphia Training School for Social Work, the Bureau for the Registration and Exchange of Confidential Information, the Pennsylvania Society to Protect Children from Cruelty, the Receiving Shelter, and the Court Aid Committee. Prior to that, these agencies were housed in several different buildings. The Charities Building, as at present arranged, marks a great advance in convenience and co-operation, but it is no longer adequate for our needs. In addition to this, many other social agencies would like to have offices in the same building with those now in the already overcrowded Charities Building. The Children's Aid Society, in common with most of the other agencies, has very important and valuable records which could not be replaced, and should be kept in a fire-proof building. The present buildings are converted dwelling houses and are not fire-proof. The floor levels, halls, stairways and arrangement of rooms make it impossible to do the work with the greatest economy of time and expense and an even more serious handicap is the congestion of our office quarters. Our work has outgrown the available space. It is not too soon to begin to make plans for the adequate housing of our various departments of work. We ought to have a large, well-adapted building to provide quarters for all the more important general charities and social service agencies having headquarters in Philadelphia. This offers a splendid opportunity to some philanthropist or group of public-spirited citizens.

APPENDIX A.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT OF THE CLOTHING COMMITTEE FOR THE YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, 1913.

The Clothing Committee of the Children's Aid Society held its annual meeting on October 10, 1913. The different heads of Committees handed in their reports and new officers and members were elected for the coming year, 1913-1914.

The Clothing Committee undertakes to provide all clothing for the children in the Society's care, with the exception of that which is purchased by certain caretakers in the country at the local stores. In addition to this, the Committee takes charge of the Christmas work for the children in the Society.

The purchase of the clothing ready-made increases each year and this work of buying is now done by a Committee, whereas formerly a salaried buyer was employed.

The total expenditure for clothing was $15,470.11 during the year ending December 31, 1913; of this about $9000 worth was purchased by the Committee.

The 2220 garments cut out by the Committee in the past year have been made up, free of expense, by eight different Dorcas Societies, to whom we wish to express our deep appreciation. This represents an increase of 748 garments over the number cut out during the previous year.

Thirty-two branches of the Needlework Guild have also given us most valuable aid in the contribution of 2530 new garments. In view of the constant increase in the number of children for whom it is necessary for the Society to provide clothing, we appreciate the help of the Needlework Guilds and hope that it may be continued and, if possible, increased.

The Committee, feeling the usual necessity of raising money through an entertainment, accepted the generous offer of the Play and Players Club to give a performance for the benefit of the Society on April 17, 1913, at the Broad Street Theatre. The amount realized was $929.98. As this play took place during a week of unusual activity in charitable entertainments, we considered the results most gratifying.

Our little Christmas appeal to children met with the usual generous response and Mrs. Arthur Brockie was appointed Chairman for the Christmas work. Presents were sent to 1450 children, all of which, with the exception of three, were reported as having reached their destination in time and in good order.

The amount spent was $349.95, and it is interesting to note that with the new parcel post service, our postage amounted to $36.36 as against $100.09 of the previous year.

We wish to extend our thanks to Mr. Clarke Thomson for his most generous donation toward special Christmas work.

Twenty-five dollars of this was given to Mrs. Russell Johnson and her Committee for their two Christmas parties for the older girls of the Society who are now self-supporting. Forty dollars was turned over for the Shelter Christmas Fund and twenty dollars disbursed for Christmas for "special" boys.

With the great increase of our children, we find it is essential to have a second woman helper in our department almost constantly, for whose wages we have made ourselves entirely responsible.

In the hope that the above is quite clear and the work of the Committee satisfactory,

Submitted for the Committee,

ANNA P. JOHNSON,

Chairman.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON SUPERVISION.

The Supervision Committee report that by request of our visitors in charge of the older girls, most of whom are wage-earners as mothers' helpers or in domestic service, it was decided to have two informal parties for them in Christmas week. One for white girls was given in the Charities Building, and the other for colored girls at the "Colored Temporary Home" in Catherine Street. Twenty-five white girls and ten colored girls ranging in age from fourteen to sixteen years responded to the invitation. They entered thoroughly into the spirit of the occasion and showed real appreciation of the entertainment and material attractions provided for them. The mutual good feeling created and interest shown were regarded by the Committee as valuable factors in their work among these often difficult charges.

APPENDIX C.

REPORT ON WORK OF COUNTY ORGANIZATIONS.

The Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania has established working relations in a number of counties in eastern Pennsylvania with the Juvenile Court authorities, Directors of the Poor, Associated Charities, Children's Homes, Humane Societies, and other agencies.

The territory of the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania includes most of the counties in the eastern and central part of the State. Since this Society was founded in Philadelphia in 1882, the movement has extended throughout the entire state. The Children's Aid Society of Western Pennsylvania was incorporated in 1889 and includes 23 counties in the western part of the State, having headquarters in Pittsburgh. In addition, there are a number of societies having their own headquarters but affiliated or co-operating with the Pittsburgh or Philadelphia offices.

A brief account is given below of some of the activities of the county organizations. In addition to this, there are a number of other counties from which the Main Office has received children. A statistical statement in regard to all the children in the care of the State Society may be found on pages 20 to 25.

From BERKS COUNTY the State Society received and had under care at the close of the year 17 children. The Reading Chamber of Commerce has taken an active part in re-organizing and systematizing the charitable work in Reading, and the Children's Aid Society will co-operate with the Reading Associated Charities in an effort to provide better care for dependent and neglected children. Those interested are also seeking to bring about closer working relations between the Directors of the Poor, the Juvenile Court authorities, the Children's Homes, the Humane Society, the Visiting Nurse Society, and other agencies. Miss Caroline deF. Penniman, secretary of the Reading Associated Charities, 534 Franklin Street, will receive applications and communications for the Children's Aid Society and co-operate with the main office.

The BUCKS COUNTY Children's Aid Society reports 62 children cared for during the year 1913, of whom 49 remained under supervision at the close of the year. Of this number, 20 were boarding in private families, 27 were in free homes, 1 was awaiting placement, and 1 was with parents under supervision. All of these children came from the Bucks County Poor Board. These children are placed out and visited in private families in Bucks County by members of the Society which acts as agent for the Directors of the Poor. For the maintenance of the children and the prosecution of the work, the treasurer of the County Society disbursed $2180.33. For the support of the work the Society received from the Directors of the Poor $2132.50, and from other sources $90.00. The officers of the County Society, all residents of Doylestown, are: President, Mrs. Henry T. Darlington; secretary, Miss Jane Watson; legal adviser, Mr. Hugh B. Eastburn; treasurer, Mrs. Richard Watson.

The CHESTER COUNTY Children's Aid Society reported in October at the annual meeting of the Directors of the Poor and Charities a total of 164 county wards in care. Of this number, 44 were in boarding homes and 120 in free homes. The Society has secured the help of a large number of persons who give volunteer services in the care and supervision of children. The Chester County Directors of the Poor and the County Society work together in looking after children who become public charges. In commenting on their work, the secretary says: "The prime thought of absorbing into happy home life the children who are taken into care by the Society is kept very closely in view and the wisdom of this plan of action is no longer a question." The officers of the Society are as follows: Mrs. I. Roberts Comfort, 300 N. Penn Street, West Chester, Pa., president; Mrs. Sarah M. Cooper, Avondale, Pa., vice-president; Mrs. Lydia B. Walton, Kennett Square, secretary; Mrs. Abbie W. Wilder, Kennett Square, assistant secretary; Mrs. William M. Marshall, Kennett Square, treasurer.

The DAUPHIN COUNTY Children's Aid Society was organized December, 1911, with headquarters at No. 5 N. Market Square, Harrisburg. Since April, 1912, Mrs. Elsie V. Middleton, formerly connected with the State Society in Philadelphia, has been general secretary of the Dauphin County Society. During the year 1913, the County Society reports 197 children under care. Of this number, 5 were boarding in private families in the country, 66 were in free homes, 69 in various institutions, 5 in Mt. Alto Sanatorium for treatment, 31 with parents and relatives under supervision, and 3 addresses unknown. The Dauphin County Society acts as placing-out agent for the County Juvenile Court, local Poor Board and the Associated Charities, the Visiting Nurse Association, and various Homes, and co-operates with the Main Office of the State Society. The president of the Society is Mrs. Frances J. Hall; first vice-president, Mrs. Martin Fager; second vice-president, Miss Anna McCormick; secretary, Mrs. Homer Black; treasurer, Mr. Francis J. Brady.

The DELAWARE COUNTY Children's Aid Society reports 46 children cared for during 1913, of whom 38 remained under supervision at the close of the year. Of these, 20 were boarding in private families, 17 were in families without payment of board, and 1 was in an institution. These children were under the supervision of the various local branches of the County Society. The treasurer's report shows an expenditure during the year ending October 14, 1913, of $981.42, of which $850.70 was for board of children and $60.00 for clothing. The funds of the Society are received from the Delaware County Directors of the Poor and County Commissioners and by dues and donations. The officers of the Society are: President, Elizabeth S. Pennell, Wawa; vice-president, Elizabeth P. Willetts, Concordville; treasurer, Elizabeth Hall, Media; secretary, Margaret G. Sellers, Swarthmore.

The FRANKLIN COUNTY Children's Aid Society, having headquarters in Chambersburg, reports 54 children cared for during the year 1913. Of this number, 25 are in free homes under the supervision of the Society, two are boarding in private families, 11 are in various institutions, and 15 are in the Receiving Home at Chambersburg awaiting disposition. These children were received by the Society from the Poor Board, Juvenile Court, and direct from parents. The officers of the County Society give their services, and the president, as in previous years, has acted as volunteer visitor without charge to the Society in visiting children who are placed out in families. The personal services thus given have been very valuable in building up the work of the Children's Aid Society in Franklin County. The Society has the active co-operation of the Directors of the Poor, and of Hon. W. Rush Gillan, who presides over the Franklin County Juvenile Court. The Society now has an endowment fund of about $10,000.00, the income of which is to be used for the better supervision of the children. The donations to the Society and the legacies are an evidence of the growing interest of the public in the work of the County Society. In addition to its work for children, the Society visits, cares for and helps to a considerable extent families in need, thus helping to prevent the separation of children from their parents. The extensive grounds and commodious building used for the Receiving Home are the property of the Franklin County Society. The officers of the Society are: President, Mr. John G. Orr; vice-president, Dr. George F. Platt; recording secretary, Rev. W. C. Cremer, D.D.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. Belle Bonbrake; treasurer, Mr. W. H. Speer.

In LANCASTER COUNTY the work of the Children's Aid Society has been under the supervision of the main office in co-operation with the County Committee. At the close of the year the Society had 47 children under care received from the Directors of the Poor of Lancaster County, and 5 received from the Juvenile Court and 8 received from other sources. In receiving and caring for children from Lancaster County, the Society co-operates with the Humane Society, the Charity Society, Poor Board, Juvenile Court, General Hospital, the Children's Home and other agencies. Acknowledgment should be made here of the resignation of Miss Anna M. Hurford, who has been the general secretary of the Lancaster County Committee since its organization in March, 1887. For more than 26 years Miss Hurford has devoted herself generously and faithfully to the care of homeless and neglected children in Lancaster County, acting as the representative of the Main Office, as well as the Lancaster Committee. During Miss Hurford's years of service, she was active in finding good homes for unfortunate children in Lancaster County, and placing them in such homes and personally visiting them. Miss Hurford deserves great credit for having retained her interest in this work over such a long period of years. The officers of the Society, all residents of Lancaster, are: Chairman, Mr. Charles G. Baker; vice-chairman, Mr. B. J. Myers; secretary, Mrs. T. Roberts Appel; treasurer, Mrs. John A. Nauman. The other members of the Committee are: Mrs. M. L. Chadman, Mrs. Charles I. Landis, Mrs. A. B. Hassler, Mrs. J. A. Maxwell, Mrs. William A. Heitshu, Dr. T. B. Appel, Dr. George P. King, Mr.

James Hale Steinman, Rev. J. W. Memminger, Mr. Albert McConomy, Mr. William R. Harnish, Mr. I. Rosenthal, Alderman W. S. Doebler, Mrs. S. R. Moss, Mrs. Charles B. Long, and Mrs. Charles F. Hager.

In LEBANON COUNTY the Children's Aid Society will co-operate with the recently organized Associated Charities, having offices in City Hall, Lebanon, Pa., Miss Eloise Stewart in charge as general secretary. The officers of the Associated Charities, all of Lebanon, are: President, C. H. Killinger, Esq.; vice-president, Edwin U. Sowers; Secretary, F. W. Robbins; treasurer, John F. Loehle. The main office of the Children's Aid Society has under care at the present time 13 children from the Lebanon County Directors of the Poor, and 1 from the Lebanon County Juvenile Court. The Children's Aid Society expects to enlarge its activities in this County and will work with the Directors of the Poor, the Juvenile Court, the County Commissioners, Visiting Nurse Society, and other agencies in the reception and care of children.

The LEHIGH COUNTY Committee is working with the Associated Charities in Allentown. Mrs. Mary L. Romig, for many years secretary of the Children's Aid Society in that County, has become chairman of this Committee. The other members, all of Allentown, are: Mrs. P. K. McDermott, Mr. D. A. Miller, and Mr. Max Hess. During the past year the work has been re-organized in Lehigh County. Early in May a conference was held with the Lehigh County Directors of the Poor and the Lehigh County Committee with the result that all of the children in the care of the local Society were placed under the supervision of the Main Office of the State Society, which, through its agents, has made inspections and visits to all of the homes where these children had been placed. During the year, a total of 57 Lehigh County children were placed under the supervision and care of the State Society.

The LYCOMING COUNTY Children's Aid Society reports 34 children cared for during the year ending May 31, 1913, and 18 more received from June 1 to December 31, 1913. Of these, four remained in the Receiving Home at Williamsport at the close of 1913. The Society did a valuable and important work in giving temporary care during the year to a number of children who were later returned to their parents. Others were placed in boarding homes or sent to the State Society for permanent placement. The Lycoming County Society received children during the year from the Overseers of the Poor, Juvenile Court, and from parents and relatives. The State Society now has placed out in family homes under its care 47 Lycoming County children, of whom seven were received in 1913. The Board of the County Society conducts a Receiving Home at Williamsport, and has been active, as shown by the fact that their expenditures from June 1, 1912, to May 31, 1913, were $2495.56, and from June 1, 1913, to December 31, 1913, they were $1080.31. To secure the necessary income to meet the expenses of the work, the Society asks for the support and co-operation of every one in Williamsport and vicinity who is interested in the welfare of unfortunate children. The officers of the County Society, all residents of Williamsport, are: President, Mr. Harry A. Miller; vice-president, Mrs. Clinton B. Coleman; secretary, Mrs. Walter E. Zahn; treasurer, Mr. William S. Millener. The officers, together with Rev. Elliott C. Armstrong, Rev. Wilson I. Miller, Mrs. Henry Myers, Mrs. Robert Hawley, Mrs. Mabel Payne Newman, Mrs. William P. Bebber, and Miss Helen Cochran, constitute the Board of Directors of the County Society.

The MONTGOMERY COUNTY Children's Aid Society reports 22 children in their care at the close of the year, of whom 20 were boarding in private families, 1 was in an institution, and 1 with parents under supervision. All of these children were received from the Montgomery County Directors of the Poor, who use this Society to assist them in finding homes for the children and visiting and supervising them after they are placed. The members of the Society report a total of 60 visits to these children during the year. The Montgomery County Society owns and occupies as headquarters No. 17 West Airy Street, Norristown, where a Day Nursery is conducted in addition to the other work done by the Society. The officers of the Society, all residents of Norristown, are as follows: President, Mrs. George W. Rogers, 529 Swede Street; vice-presidents, Mrs. H. M. Bunting and Mrs. Joseph Fornance; corresponding secretary, Miss Emma Camm, 821 DeKalb Street; recording secretary, Miss Mary L. Cresson; treasurer Mrs. Joseph K. Weaver, 816 DeKalb Street.

In NORTHAMPTON COUNTY the work of the Society is largely done through the probation officers of the Juvenile Court and the secretaries of the Easton Charity Organization Society, the Associated Charities of the Bethlehems, and the Children's Home. At the close of the year the State Society had under its care 27 children from Northampton County, of whom 22 were received from the Juvenile Court, one from the Directors of the Poor, and four from other sources. The County branch of the Society reports 13 children in care at the close of the year, and the total expenditure for board for the year $1021.60, and for clothing, etc., $235.66. The income for these expenditures is derived in per capita payments from the Directors of the Poor of Northampton County. Miss Elizabeth A. Dinan, National Bank Building, South Bethlehem, is acting president, Miss Mildred Graham, Brodhead Avenue, South Bethlehem, is treasurer, and Mrs. William R. Chambers, Delaware Avenue, South Bethlehem, is secretary.

From the SCHUYLKILL COUNTY Directors of the Poor, the Children's Aid Society has under care at the present time 7 children. The Society has received from the Children's Home in Pottsville, conducted by the Benevolent Association, 8 children for care. In this County the Children's Aid Society will co-operate with the Directors of the Poor, Mr. B. S. Simonds, chief probation officer of the Juvenile Court, the Pottsville Benevolent Association, and other agencies in the reception and care of children.
